REGISTRATION DEADLINE

Saturday March 12

In this workshop, Gerald will instruct you on:

- Pastels and types of paper
- Creating underpaintings
- Color composition
- Layering techniques

By using a still life set-up with a large number of objects, you will be able to practice isolating a good composition much like a landscape painter will do in the field when confronted with many choices. Gerald will give a pastel demonstration and work with each student individually along with critiques of your work.

Gerald has extensive experience in judging shows and will give advice on strategies for getting accepted into shows and, perhaps, even winning awards. He has been the Chair of the Pastel Society of the West Coast's national show for the past 8 years and will give advice on how that process works.

Oil painters are welcome!
