“Immediacy is important not only because it is often the nature of people, but, for me, it is the most instinctive way to paint.”
– Kim English

This class will concentrate on the ability paint quickly and accurately, a skill which can be useful in many situations. Working in this way, the opportunity to explore ideas through numerous images may help to achieve a more spontaneous yet controlled approach. Techniques for simplifying the comparison of both color and value will be practiced.

Working with a model, numerous small studies will be painted each day. All model fees covered except for model tips.

Kim English has won numerous awards for his work including Gold Medal of Honor, Allied Artists of America; Joseph Hartly Memorial Award, the Salmagundi Club; Grand Award, Akron Society of Artists; and multiple Silver Medals, Salon d'Arts Invitational. He has been published in Southwest Art Magazine in 1986, 2000 and 2001; American Artist, Artist's Magazine, American Art Collector and Art Talk. He has taught internationally and at leading Artist Academies throughout the US.
